Lyrics: Laurent Colson

Composer: Laurent Colson

A photograph of a person standing in the center of a long, arched hallway. The hallway is dimly lit, with a bright light source at the far end, creating a silhouette effect. The walls are made of stone and feature a series of arches. The floor is polished and reflects the light.

Le rêve est une vie éphémère
Qui meurt au commencement d'un jour nouveau
Pour laisser place à un souvenir
Perdu au plus profond de soi-même

Vocals: Gabriel

Lyrics: Laurent Colson

Composer: Laurent Colson

Can we sign for hell? No
I lose my soul for real world
I close my eyes to forget
Choose a gate to escape

Like a ghost with human face
I'm searching for a reason road
I can fly on the flow
A way to feel the soft breeze

Crazy jail says hello
I was pierced by an arrow
It was a tale finally
A tale to learn a lesson

Beside a throne of broken glass
I saw the toys of misfit brain
I can slide on the ice
Or return to heaven
